BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS., FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1952

Barge Breaks Loose, Grounded Off Seawall At Nicholson Avenue

Victim of the turbulent waters of the Mississippi Sound Tuesday and Wednesday, a 200 foot barge lay grounded, Wednesday afternoon and night about 100 yards off the Waveland seawall at Nicholson Avenue. The barge's towline snapped in stormy weather Tuesday morning about 2:00 o'clock off Round Island, four miles south of Pascagoula.

A coast guard PBY spotted the drifting barge Wednesday three miles south of the west end of the Bay St. Louis train bridge. The barge, owned by the Gulf Canal Lines-Houston, New Orleans and Mobile, was enroute from New Orleans and Mobile under tow of the tug Joanne.

Earl Will, general manager, eastern division of the lines, stated that both the tug and the barge lost their anchors in their efforts to secure the barge after the break.

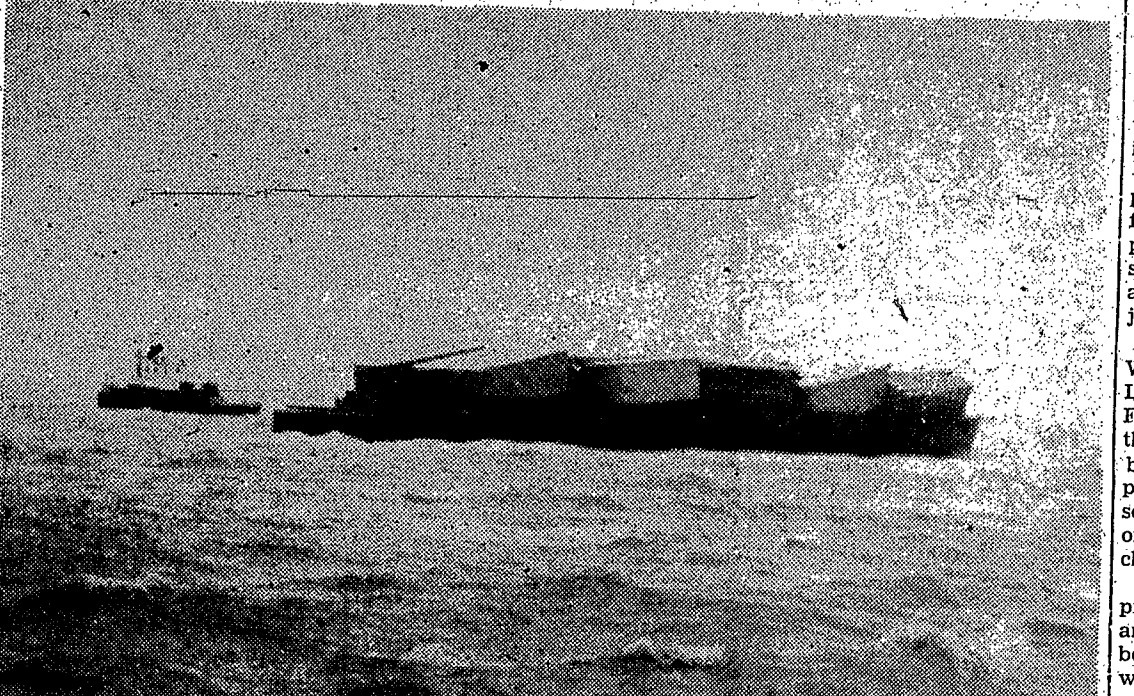

Sixteen truck trailers aboard the barge were reported to have carried airplane motors, rubber tires and beans.

The barge struck ground in an estimated seven feet of water at about 11:30 a. m. It was feared at one time that the barge might fall into an incoming Bay tide and smash into the train bridge.

A high tide permitted the huge barge, a converted LSM, to slip close to the shoreline. Had the tide been higher, the seawall and piers in the near vicinity would have been endangered.

The tug began retrieving operations at 12:45 p. m. and worked into the early hours of Thursday morning clearing the vessel. Tentative plans made before the barge was freed were to tow it to either Gulfport or New Orleans.

Observations...

By UDELL

The squalls we had this week scared a lot of our summer residents and local citizens. This office had more calls for weather reports, which, by the way, we don't handle. . . . Everyone thought a hurricane was headed for this area. . . . Incidentally, St. Stanislaus college could not give any weather reports because they had only received small craft warnings.

Well, the Chamber of Commerce will remain active in Hancock County. . . . But everyone should make a point of joining this organization and working with the president and board of directors to make it a thriving and progressive group. . . . It is an impossible task for nine men to develop their community without the help and cooperation of the people they are serving on their own time. . . . When you knock yourself out on some project and do not receive even a "well done" for your efforts, it sort of gets a little tiresome after a while. . . . These nine men are working for the people of the community without their support. . . . That too, can get a bit stale. . . . It's up to you, the people of Hancock County, to show your C of C that you are going to work with them on any project. . . .

People are still using the streets for garbage pails. . . . Last week, right in the middle of the street someone dumped a pile of garbage. This unsightly mess could easily have been disposed of by other means than those taken by these inconsiderate people. . . .

The Teen-Age Club drive is coming along, but the youngsters need the help of every interested person in the city. . . . Your contribution, regardless of size, will help build a fund that will aid in the development of the men and women of tomorrow. . . .

James F. Brent, who is conducting the summer band program, will present his pupils in a concert on the sand beach at 5:45 p. m. Sunday July 20. . . . Everyone is invited to attend. . . .

LAKESHORE CIVIC HALL TO REOPEN

The Lakeshore Civic Association wishes to announce that its hall at Lakeshore will reopen with a dance Saturday evening, July 19. Music will be furnished by Ivy Ladner and his Country Boys. Admission gents 75c and ladies free. Everyone is invited to attend.

53 Participate In B-W Regatta

In a fitting climax to the two-week Mississippi Coast Yachting Association annual festival, the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club regatta saw 53 skippers in nine races make of one of the finest mixed class regattas on the Gulf Coast.

The day's racing schedule was started with the Raven Class, won by Sidney Ellis, Pass Christian Yacht Club, sailing the Jamaica K. Raven Mad with Bubby Hartson, Southern Yacht Club, at the helm was second.

Sandpiper sailed by Commander Steve Jennings, B-WYC, won out in the cutter class race. The Gulf on-designer race was a contest among seven SYC boats and one New Orleans Yacht Club boat. Southwind, SYC, sailed by S. W. Provencol Sr., won the match with S. W. Provencol Jr., taking second place.

Only three entries answered the starting gun for the star class race. Dick Hadden's Shadow, SYC, was followed home by Scout VI, sailed by Jimmy Smithers, SYC. SYC had it all to themselves in the Luder-16 competition. Commodore Shelby Friedrichs finished ahead of John F. Dix Jr., after a hard fought two-round battle.

A field of 10 crossed the finish line when the Lightnings met in racing conflict. District Lightning champion Gene Wallet III guided his Spirit into the winning position. Last year's district winner, Cliff Prados, now of Shreveport Yacht Club was second.

A growing coast penquin fleet sailed a race in which Gulfport Yacht Club's John Floyd took first place with Louis Koerner, Jr., B-WYC, in second position. Mrs. Janet Green, Biloxi Yacht Club, left the men going away in the expert fish class race. John Ballatin, New Orleans Yacht Club was second.

In the last race of the afternoon, the Junior Fish Class encounter, Will Power, BWC, was disqualified. Bill Cooper, B-WYC, was second.

The Bay St. Louis Youth Center will present a benefit picture show at the A & G Theatre Wednesday, July 30. Be ready to purchase tickets for your family when representatives of the club approach you.

—There will be fun and amusements of all types at the Annual Church Fair of Our Lady of the Gulf church, to be held Saturday and Sunday, July 26 and 27—be sure to attend and bring the kids with you.

Getting up steam, the Bay St. Louis Youth Center drive for operating funds to be used in the coming fiscal year received a boost of $156.50 this week, bringing the two-week drive total to $231.75.

I believe we should make every effort to avoid another world war. I believe the surest way to prevent war is to be prepared to meet any aggressor.

I believe we should leave no stone unturned in our fight against communism, both at home and abroad.

I believe we should make it clear to other freedom-loving nations of the world that we are willing and ready to assist them in the suppression of communism but demand that they show in return that they need and are worthy of our assistance. I do not believe we should spend billions where the people have made no effort to help themselves.

I believe the U. S. government should spend money wisely, and I promise to fight against wasteful spending by any government agency.

ADJUTANT GENERAL, GUARDSMEN SEEK SLOTS

Following orders of Governor Hugh White, Adjutant General P. Wilson with two Guardsmen sought slots in Hancock County Saturday afternoon, July 12, conferred with county John Egloff.

The forewarned, however, took place, according to White, in order to place the state investigating slots would be run off the coast soon. Governor White said the governor's west approach.

No slot gambling devices found in operation here Saturday, but Governor White warned in the future no advance would be given on raids by National Guard.

The adjutant general said guardsmen also contacted Harrison County Sheriff, Edwin McDonnell and Jackson County Sheriff Leo Byrd. Before the state authorities arrived on the coast all three sheriffs had declared that they knew nothing of any slot machines operating in their counties.

A news dispatch from Jackson Friday quoted Governor White as saying that slot machines were before the public in "beast places" in an unlicensed Hancock County. However, no slot were discovered in any of the three coast counties.

This was Governor White's first stab at illegal gambling, highly publicized during the Senate investigation on the coast last year.

White said that he will send the National Guard to any place in the state to suppress slot machine operation only. He stated that the would be constantly called upon to send out the National Guard if he endeavored to perform the duties of county officials in enforcing local laws.

There were some slot machines in the county home time ago, but explained that he made a personal check and notified operators that "slots must go."

C of C Wants All To Pick Projects

The Advance Planning Committee of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, invited all of the people in the county to select their choice of a "number one" project for the good of the entire county.

In next week's issue of this paper will appear a list of proposals or projects which are thought to be of top priority. To this list, however, the reader may add whatever project he thinks more essential than the ones shown on the list. The list will be submitted in the form of a ballot and each one making a selection will be asked to select three projects marked according to his first, second or third choice. No name is to be signed unless the one making the selections wishes to do so.

After complete returns are received the Advance Planning Committee will then tabulate the selections and the results will be published in the following week's issue of the Echo.

"You Pick It, We'll Push It" has been adopted as the Chamber of Commerce slogan for this scheme. The idea is to remind the general public that they have an interest in Chamber of Commerce activities and that the Chamber of Commerce is willing to work for the general welfare of the community.

WINS TROPHY

Teen-age Gene Wallet III in Spirit II won first place and the John Curran perpetual trophy in the southern district international lightning class championships at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club last week. Wallet took two wins and a fourth place in the three-race series Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 14-16.

"Bay Is Not Dead," Robin Tells C Of C

A decision was reached at a called meeting Tuesday night, July 10, to keep the Chamber of Commerce active in Hancock County.

A. H. Gregory, president who opened the meeting, stated that the C of C was solvent. He cited that the Hancock County organization was not the only meeting with criticism and read excerpts from a recent speech made by Don Shepherd, president of the Gulfport group, stating some of the problems facing them.

Dan M. Russell Jr., member of the Board, was made chairman of the meeting.

The Chamber, which was reorganized in 1945, holds an open meeting once a year. The regular monthly meetings were dispensed with some time ago when the attendance lagged. The chairman showed the ways in which the C of C "becomes a habit to the people of every community," and how it is a necessity to the growth and development of an area.

T. T. Robin stated that Bay St. Louis is not a dead community and he showed some private improvements now going on and those accomplished within the last year. Among these were Mauffray Dry Goods' remodeling; addition to Mauffray Hardware; improvements to the Merchants Bank; Hancock Insurance Agency's new building; Osoinach's new department store; Jitney-Jungle's improvements; Kern's Carver's new store; Fahey Funeral Home's additions; Loiacano's new building on Necaise avenue; Demoran's Laundry; two new subdivisions; the new bridge; oil wells in Hancock County waters; $56,000 of road work in the County which covers two projects to be completed in 1952 and two in 1953 being that of the County engineers; letting of a contract for 19 streets in the City; sand beach with lights and playground; new well in Cedar Point; improvements in the City Hall; an airport.

In telling of the Housing Project, which is complete on paper and ready to go, Mr. Robin announced that the plans were not approved because of the sanitation system, which is holding up progress on the work.

Wayne Allison, of the Hancock County Health Department, said that sooner or later people must realize that Bay St. Louis must have a sewerage system in order to go forward. "In a year or less," Mr. Allison added, "government financed homes will be out of the question because lots for proper sewerage are getting scarce. A sewerage system is our one salvation."

I am a disabled veteran of World War II, a member of the American Legion and of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars. I am a member of the Methodist Church. I am a boilermaker by trade but for the past five years have occupied myself with farming. I am 42 years of age, am married, and have one child.

I am well acquainted with the problems of labor, of industry, and of farming, and I promise to be fair to all in matters upon which I am called to act.

I am a strong believer in the dignity of man. I believe that no man should humble himself to anyone but God.

Dick Bourgeois Completes Course

Richard H. Bourgeois, aviation machinist's mate, third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Bourgeois, Waveland, has recently completed a phase of rocket and gunnery training at El Centro, California, while serving with Attack Squadron 702.

Crew members of Attack Squadron 702 work with the pilots who fire all sizes of rockets that are capable of knocking out the heaviest of tanks.

Clarke Schumaker, representative of the L & N Railroad, announced that the Company is going to discontinue three trains from New Orleans to the Gulf Coast. These three, No. 7 which leaves Bay St. Louis at 1:52 p.m.; No. 10, which leaves New Orleans at 3:30 p.m.; and No. 14, which runs on Saturdays only, leaving New Orleans at 2:00 p.m., were being discontinued because of the losses suffered.

He stated that on No. 7 alone, L & N has lost $88,844; No. 10, $49,539; and No. 14, $7,483. He added that there has been a steady decline in passenger traffic from the Gulf Coast to New Orleans since the erection of highway bridges on this particular route.

Kenneth Whitfield, member of the Board of Directors, stated that he felt the greatest failure of citizens is a loss of faith in Bay St. Louis even though opportunity is here. He added that the C of C should find out what the community needs more than anything else and work towards a definite goal of accomplishment.

In order to bring industry to Bay St. Louis, four things are needed: labor, power and cost, water supply and freight rates.

A $100,000 school with a new lunchroom in the school proper, is in progress for Bay St. Louis.

The Chamber of Commerce, which is open to all business men and people of Hancock County, now has only 60 members, 38 of whom are local and 22 from out-of-town. The County and City are now helping to support this organization.

Soil Conservation News

Improper land-use causes the loss of top soil worth millions of dollars every year. Five thousand 100-acre farms are washed away every year in the United States due to failure to recognize the need for soil conservation. As the top soil washes down the steep slopes to the ocean, the soil is deposited in the creeks and rivers and the fertile bottom land. After sand is deposited on bottom land it becomes worthless to everyone.

When the water rushes down the slopes at a terrific speed it cannot soak into the earth, to preserve precious moisture for the survival of crops, pastures and trees. The run-off water can be controlled by terraces, contours and crops on the steep slopes, then a major portion of the water is retarded to soak into the earth for the crops, pastures and trees to use later.

Here are some of the things you can do to help the Soil Conservation Movement.

Suggestions by William H. Latbroop, Upper Miss. Region, Soil Conservation Service, Milwaukee, Wis., Agricultural Information Bulletin No. 78.

1. You can learn more about Soil Conservation.

2. You can explain the importance of soil conservation to friends and to groups to which you belong.

3. You can learn what is being done and what needs to be done about soil conservation in your community.

4. If you own land, you can see that it is used wisely and safely.

5. You can urge that Soil Conservation be taught in your school.

6. You can join a Soil Conservation Organization, there is one in your County or you can help organize one in your community.

7. You can support Soil Conservation wherever it is a public issue.

Shading, Use Of Hormones Aid Tomatoes

Tomatoes normally will not set fruit during the most summer months in Mississippi but research men at the Mississippi Experiment Station are working on two ways to overcome this fall crop hazard. Yield of fall tomatoes has been increased significantly by shading to reduce light intensity and by use of hormone spray on the flower cluster.

Horticulturist E. L. Moore and W. O. Thomas, who conducted the experiment, reported that plants grown under certain light intensity produced three times as many fruits by October 19 as the plants grown under high light intensity. The average yield of early fruits from plants grown under low light intensity was greater than that from the plants grown under high light intensity. Low light intensity produced the same as medium light intensity. The hormone was just as effective as reducing the light intensity in increasing early yield. In addition, the chemical was as effective in increasing early yield under one light intensity as it was under another. The average yield of early fruit was tripled by the chemical. Plants which received the hormone matured fruit nine days earlier than plants which did not receive the hormone.

Even though the early yield was tripled by spraying the clusters with the hormone or by reducing the light, the combined effects of the hormone and reducing the light intensity were even more pronounced. Plants grown under medium light intensity and sprayed with the hormone produced 5.4 pounds of edible fruit per 10 plants by October 19, whereas plants grown under high light intensity and without hormone treatment produced less than one-half pound.

Breland Attends Education Session At State Capital

E. E. Breland, Hancock County superintendent of education, attended the regular annual meeting of County Superintendents of Mississippi in Jackson, July 10 and 11, on call of State Superintendent J. M. Tubb. The meeting was well attended and proved of tremendous benefit to this group of county officials.

Appearing on the program to discuss the Public Employees' Retirement System were W. R. Hough, Executive Secretary, and G. W. Thompson, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the System. This discussion was most helpful in clarifying many points in this new law and system.

Senator George Owen, Pontotoc, vice-chairman of the School Study Committee, gave an interesting discussion on the plans and procedures of his committee. He answered many questions regarding his committee's work that were very helpful and extended an invitation to the county superintendents to meet with his committee on Tuesday, July 15, at the committee offices in the New Capitol, Jackson.

State Superintendent Tubb expressed satisfaction over the splendid attendance, the great interest manifested and the many answers obtained to perplexing questions. He also was delighted with the many other routine matters of business transacted by the county superintendents with Department officials during the meeting days.

County Agent's Notes Shade Is Needed By Hogs During Hot Summer Days

By HOWARD SIMMONS

Hogs suffer more from heat than other animals. Many times hogs without shade get too hot and die. Do you have shade in your hog lot? It is really necessary to successful hog production.

Natural shade is better but if it is not available, build some kind of artificial shade to protect your hogs from the hot sun. A brush or straw harbor will do the job. Allow from seven to eight square feet per hog.

Place small arbors on skids so that they can be moved from place to place to avoid formation of dusty or muddy holes. Hogs need clear drinking water. It is poor management to let hogs drink from mud holes, and old pools. A barrel, either wooden or metal, on skids and equipped with automatic drinkers is one way to provide water. Paint metal barrels aluminum so that they will reflect sun's rays and keep water cooler.

Automatic drinkers on wooden or concrete platforms, or concrete troughs with automatic floats will do the job. Build up around the waterer with gravel to prevent hogs from rooting.

Feed bred sows a balanced ration combining grain and protein supplement for better fall litters. Don't let these sows get too fat. As a general rule a bred sow should gain from 80 to 100 pounds during the gestation period.

Plant pig and sow lots for fall and spring grazing. Oats and ryegrass is a good combination. Is a good combination.

FARM SAFETY
Next week is National Farm Safety Week. During this week is a good time to check up on the accident hazards on your farm and in your home.

Some what to do's to help make farms safer places to be are: Check your fences to make sure that the bull doesn't get out and remember, bulls are dangerous animals. Don't leave rakes, mower blades, or any other dangerous sharp equipment and tools where they are likely to be stumbled into; especially keep them out of reach of small children. A good rule is, "A place for everything and everything in its place."

Remember, when you get hurt your earning power also gets hurt. You know, you can get a lift from a ladder or you can get a sudden let-down. Which is going to be largely up to you. Keep that ladder in good shape. When placing the ladder make sure that it's not going to slip and let you down.

Practice safety next week and live to be safe the rest of the year.

MID-YEAR FARM OUTLOOK
Beef, lamb and veal production are expected to be higher than last year. Pork production will be lower. Lower cattle prices are expected when fall marketing reaches a peak. Broilers have regained the heavy drop of April and May.

Milk demand and price will continue strong. Production is expected to drop. Production costs are also expected to increase. Net profit to dairymen should remain about the same.

Egg prices are expected to continue below 1951 levels.

Feed supplies are expected to be low until the fall comes in. Prices will remain high.

Corn acreage for Mississippi is estimated to be the lowest in 60 years. Acreages planted in soybeans and hay crops are about the same as in 1951.

Much cotton acreage had to be during planting and early cultivation, injured crop prospects. Cotton will be supported at 10 percent of parity. The average loan rate will not be less than 30.91 cents a pound on medium 7/8 inch cotton.

Sweet potato acreage is smaller in 82 years and Irish potato acreage the smallest since 1930. Prices of both should continue good.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Arceneaux Sr. were visited over the weekend by their daughter, Mrs. P. G. Bernheim, and children.

DR. UNDERWOOD CHOSEN AGAIN AS STATE CANCER CHAIRMAN

At the recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Division of the American Cancer Society, Dr. Felix J. Underwood was re-elected Chairman for the year 1952-53. Other elected officers of the Division were Mrs. Elizabeth N. Wates, Executive Vice Chairman and secretary; Mr. George Wallace, Treasurer.

Dr. Underwood was also re-elected State Campaign Chairman. He has served as Chairman of the Division since 1945. In his capacity as state campaign chairman for the 1952 Cancer Crusade, Dr. Underwood has again received a national award for outstanding service. According to reports, "Accomplishments of the program have been great and Dr. Underwood's vision has been broad—as evidenced by his ability to keep a program with ever broadening horizons from spending beyond its financial resources."

In his report to the Board of Directors, Dr. Underwood stated that the 1952 campaign saw for the first time a campaign in each of the 82 counties of the state. He pointed out the great need for each county to have a campaign to raise the quota assigned it. Dr. Underwood paid particular tribute to the twelve district chairmen who served with him for 1952.

Walter Gex, Bay St. Louis, was chairman of district 12.

The following appointments of Committee Chairmen made were: Dr. W. H. Parsons, Vicksburg, Chairman, Committee on Education; Dr. E. R. Nobles, Rosedale, Chairman, Committee on Terminal Care; Dr. J. Harvey Johnston, Jackson, Chairman, Finance Committee; Dr. Hugh Gamble, Greenville, Chairman, Medical Committee; Dr. D. S. Panikratz, University of Mississippi, Chairman, Scientific Committee; Dr. D. S. Panikratz, Chairman, Committee on Awards; Dr. E. R. Hall, Jackson, Chairman, Committee on County Standards of Operation. "These committees have rendered excellent services to the American Cancer Society," Mississippi Division in the past and have been responsible for the development of the program in the state," stated Dr. Underwood. He requested that the committee chairmen call together their committees at an early date. It was pointed out that in the report of Dr. Harvey Johnston, Finance Committee Chairman, that the Mississippi Division operates on an extremely low administrative cost of less than 7 per cent. According to Dr. Underwood, "The greatest portion of the dollar goes to operate the very large service program which is necessary in Mississippi. There are more than 11,000 cancer cases in the state of Mississippi today. This should make thoughtful Mississippians give more time to the furtherance of the program which will preserve the lives of its people. Last year 1,247 new patients received aid and assistance from the cancer control program and this organization carries follow up aid for something over 3,000 patients."

George Wallace, Treasurer of the Division, emphasized the fact that there had been a terrific expense in handling cancer patients but stated that the service program must continue. He pointed out the fact that during the past year many more children died from cancer in Mississippi between the ages of birth and 21 than of polio during the time.

Mrs. Wates stated that there are something like 3,000 terminal cancer cases in the state of Mississippi. She explained, "A Terminal cancer case is an individual having the disease whose life will terminate from the disease of cancer within six months. This should make us realize that this phase of the program must remain a community and county problem. Mississippi is meeting her terminal cancer problem as no other state in the union, as evidenced by the thousands of dressings sent out to individuals in the state of Mississippi in 1952; and the thousands of dollars expended to make the last days comfortable for terminal care, that is, for the patient." Mrs. Wates said, "It is impossible to estimate the services of the family physician in the program of terminal care." Dr. Eugene Nobles, chairman of this committee, paid particular tribute to the volunteers over the state who have made possible the terminal care program by making dressings, and by teaching families how to best care for the patient. Recognition was also made of the public health nurse who has given inestimable service. It was pointed out that this phase of the program is growing rapidly and demanding more time from public health nurses, more time from volunteers and more time from the family physician who devotes hours to the service program.

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Wates in her report to the Board of Directors and Executive Committee stated, "There is no program that demands so much charity service both the specialist who renders from the practicing physician—hours of time without remuneration in the tumor clinics and the family physician who refers the patients and cares for them after they are returned to their homes. If Mississippi had to pay her physicians for these services millions of dollars would be required. Not one physician in the program of the American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division, receives any payment for his services."

Objectives of the Education Committee for 1952 stated were: to continue furthering education of nurses and physicians in cancer control; to increase the cancer film library, so that through audio-visual education the program may be brought before all professional groups, nurses, physicians, dentists, etc.; to broaden the lay education program in order that every individual in Mississippi may know what to do in the event of cancer strikes in his home and that he may know how to protect himself against cancer.

Dr. Hugh Gamble, Chairman of Medical and Scientific Committee, reported that great progress is being made along the lines of research; that we now have available drugs which five years ago were not dreamed of. Dr. Gamble again emphasized the fact that there is no sure cure, quick fix, answer to cancer. He stated that the individual will be the first person to receive the warning signal that he has the disease and early medical attention. Dr. Gamble said that Mississippi probably has the most outstanding service and education program in the nation—certainly among the best.

It was reported that the Committee on Awards, which will meet shortly, will make a study of these phases of the program and submit a report of their activities to the National Office.

The county unit system in Mississippi in which each county assumes responsibility for the care of the county campaign and of terminal patients, the operation of the county campaign and the furthering of the education program at a county level was commended. The need for definite standards for all counties to operate on was expressed. According to Mr. Bagby Hall, a meeting of his committee has been called for July 17, to study county standards and make certain recommendations along this line.

"Why does the cancer control program catch and hold the interest of so many? Because, regardless of a person's station in life there is a need for him to give of himself in this program—because all men regardless of their ages are potential victims of the disease, and because we can do something about cancer. More than that, it answers the need in every human heart to be of service to his fellow man—it gives us the opportunity to help our

DO MORE THAN THINK ABOUT FARM SAFETY

"Farm safety concerns everyone, and all organized groups in Mississippi are urged to take an active part in National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26," stated M. S. Shaw, associate director of the Mississippi State Agricultural Extension Service, and chairman of the State Farm Safety Program. "National security depends upon 'all out' farm production, Mr. Shaw pointed out.

"With fewer farm workers, we are producing more food and fiber than ever before. Conservation of farm manpower and womanpower is vital to our nation." Youth groups, 4-H Club and F. F. A. members, can do much in actually finding and eliminating dangerous conditions on farms, Mr. Shaw said. The campaign of action also needs the support of churches, enterprises, groups, civic clubs, chambers of commerce and other organizations.

Nationally, there are 41 farm accident fatalities every day, and a disabling injury on some farm every 24 seconds. Accidents affecting farmers cost a billion dollars a year, aside from the grief and suffering.

Prevent farm accidents by removing hazards, Mr. Shaw urged, listing a few of the common dangers.

Falls cause many injuries and deaths, both in the home and around farm buildings. Loose rugs and slippery floors are a bad skidding combination. Put handrails on stairways.

See that all ladders are in good condition. In use, set ladders securely, with the bottom far enough out from the wall. Work at least two steps from the top of the ladder.

Highway safety is especially important. No fraction of time saved is worth an accident. Use proper highway signals. Always be a courteous driver.

More farm machinery means more hazards unless operators thing and practice safety. Take time to study the operator's manual.

Always replace the safety shield over gears on machines. Stop the motor before oiling or adjusting machinery.

Hidden stumps or hollows may turn over a farm machine. Watch out for these hazards. Better yet, get rid of them.

Fires caused through carelessness destroy a lot of farm property every year.

Be sure matches are out before throwing them away. Keep matches away from children. Clear away any rubbish.

Some farm animals are vicious by nature. Always approach them carefully. Lead the bull on a staff. Keep fences repaired.

DAIRYING IS IMPORTANT SOURCE OF MISSISSIPPI FARM INCOME

The state's output of dairy products from creameries, condensers, and cheese factories has grown steadily in the postwar years—reaching a record value of $35-million in 1951. This is an increase of $9.7-million in one year. And the rising number of dairy plants, spreading across the state, create new markets for farmers—spurring the steady progress toward even higher farm incomes in Mississippi.

ANOTHER SIGNPOST OF PROGRESS in the Magnolia State is the growth of the beer industry, due to the increased public acceptance of legally-regulated beer as the beverage of moderation.

By - Gone Days

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO

History, romance and legends of days gone by were revived in this section this week when it was learned parties were digging for buried treasure on Joseph Favre's place, out Main Street about three miles.

A party of strangers, who claim to be descendants of the old Melito family, formerly owning and residing on the place now owned by Joseph Favre, arrived with instruments for locating supposed buried treasure of money and jewels, which the Melito family possessed according to reports received.

The representative of the Echo was unable to learn the strangers' names or from whence they came, but it is reported they are wealthy Coast residents and that they claim to have unearthed sixty-five different buried treasures.

TEN YEARS AGO

Roland Weston, chairman of the Hancock County Salvage Committee, reports that the Special Rubber Salvage Committee in the county has done a wonderful piece of work.

Since the start of the rubber salvage campaign, there has been collected 78,822 pounds of scrap rubber in the county. This is indeed a splendid record for the county people. We understand that the quota assigned over the county was three pounds per person. Hancock County has averaged seven pounds per person.

We are happy to extend our congratulations to the people who made the drive a success.

FIVE YEARS AGO

A mass meeting has been called by the Hancock County Law Enforcement Association for Tuesday, July 29 at the Hancock County Courthouse. The association advises that they are not officially endorsing any candidate and that invitations to speak briefly have been sent to those who are running for sheriff, constable, justice of the peace and county supervisor. Officers and a steering committee will be elected for the year.

ONE YEAR AGO

Clifford Prados in the "Dixie Doodle" copped the lightning class district championship July 10, 11, 12, at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club and the chance to represent the Louisiana-Mississippi-Alabama district in the international championship races at Toledo, Ohio, late this August.

Prados, formerly of Southern Yacht Club and now representing Bay-Waveland, won the championship for the second consecutive year. He finished second, first and third respectively in the three races sailed.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

by
W. F. Bond, Director of Public

The legislature at its recent session increased the appropriation for the Welfare Department for the biennium beginning July 1 of this year $5,000,000 for all purposes. Of course, most of this increase will go to the needy aged, which will mean that in July 64 percent of the old people on the old age payroll will receive an increase in their monthly checks ranging from $1 to $2 each. The other 16 percent will not receive any increase because either their grants are so low the percentage of increase will not make any difference, or because they are already receiving the maximum allowed under the Mississippi law of $30.00 a month. Just before congress adjourned the other day it voted an increase to the states for the welfare program but at the present time we do not know the conditions under which this extra money may be made available.

O P S NEWS

OPS has acted to assure normal distribution of bales and binder twine to farmers by establishing for the first time dollar-and-cents ceilings for dealers. The new ceilings are about 16 percent above the manufacturers' current list prices and represent an average pre-Korean dealer markup. They will not raise the level of price already established in the price regulation.

OPS has removed from price controls the fees and charges for making and supplying abstracts of title to real property. This eliminates administrative burdens not warranted in a service field where charges often set by states and where the cost to the public is infrequent and of little significance on the cost of living.

OPS reminds consumers that the basic cause of today's inflation, the necessity for a vast defense rearmament program, will mean a growing rate of expenditures during the coming 12 months. Thus inflationary pressures will be intensified rather than lessened.

Charles Giametta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Giametta, has returned home from Biloxi where he visited his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fountain and family.

Miss Regina Blaize is vacationing with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald N. Blaize, Jr., Houston, Texas.

Mrs. John Weston, Bay St. Louis, and Miss Alma Parker, Logtown, are vacationing in North Carolina.

OPS has established reduced ceiling prices at retail for the 1952 Henry J line and Allstate line of new passenger automobiles.

OPS in decontrolling white flesh potatoes, was directly influenced by the fact that the Senate had voted to discontinue controls over fresh fruits and vegetables. Thus congressional action meant the end of potato controls on July 1, and to have continued controls for two or three weeks would have been both unfair to dealers who adhered to ceiling prices and administratively a pointless burden, the price stabilization agency explained.

OPS, in its report on inflationary trends, finds that the index of prices paid by farmers reached an all-time high in mid-April and is running some 14 percent costs to the farmer can be held down, further and much greater food cost increases, but with even less net return to the farmer, can be expected, the price stabilization agency declared.

Polio Cases This Year Double 1951

The state of Mississippi has more than twice as many cases of polio reported this year as in 1951, reports the president of the State Board of Health.

Dr. A. L. Gray told the state polio planning committee Tuesday that "The state has had 187 cases of polio so far this year compared to 80 cases this time last year." Hinds, Warren, Yazoo, Humphries and Washington counties are the hardest hit so far and the indications are they will suffer heavily in the next six or seven weeks.

In the business meeting that followed, Dr. Gray was named to the group's executive committee along with Dr. W. E. Noblin and Dr. G. W. Arrington.

Dr. Felix Underwood of Jackson was named president of the committee and B. T. Anthony, former state director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, was chosen secretary.

Bride-Elect Honored At Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Margaret Boh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger M. Boh Sr., whose approaching marriage to Marion J. Wolfe Jr., will be celebrated July 28, was honored with a miscellaneous shower attended by about 100, Thursday, July 10.

Hostesses were Mesdames H. A. Eldridge, N. L. Carter, E. V. Kirkpatrick, and W. J. Gex. Refreshments of punch, cake and sandwiches were served.

Saturday, July 19 a luncheon in honor of the bride party will be given at Hotel Reed with Mesdames E. C. Carrere, Louis F. Maurius and H. L. Kergosien as hostesses.

Mesdames E. M. Brignac, M. A. Gilmore, L. M. Gex and Miss Ethel Gex will give a cocktail from 7:00 to 10:00 p. m. in honor of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Corley and son, Hollie, left Tuesday to return to New Iberia, Louisiana, after a two-week visit with brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Farr.

"What Do You Mean—Only ONE True Church?"

Non-Catholics often resent the claim that the Catholic Church alone is the true Church of Christ.

"You Catholics," some of them say, "have a lot of nerve. The Church is universal. Anybody can belong to it who accepts Christ as his personal Savior and models his life after Christ's teaching. We can be members of the true Church without being Catholics."

Many who feel this way about it are, of course, sincere and devout people. And it is not our intention to challenge the various shades of Christian thought which they represent. We do ask them, however, to understand that the Catholic claim is not a matter of arrogance or intolerance—but of the deepest religious conviction.

Nearly all Christians agree that there can be only one true Church. Yet there are hundreds of different denominations—some of them miles apart in what they teach—all claiming to be the true Church. Certainly all of them cannot be right—in fact, only ONE can.

But which one? How can we identify it?

The Son of God made Himself recognizable to men by coming upon the earth with a body and soul like ours. It was in His physical body that He died for our redemption. Having thus so carefully revealed Himself to the people of His own time, would He not make equally sure that future generations should also know Him?

Catholics believe that the Savior did so, through the Church—in which He is "able at all times to save those who came to God through Him." The Church is, therefore, not merely a body of people believing in Christ. But the Body appointed by Christ Himself to continue His mission of redemption.

"He who hears you," the Savior said, "hears Me." For Catholics, this means that when the Church speaks it is Christ speaking. When the Church offers prayer and sacrifice and forgiveness of sins, it is Christ's prayer and sacrifice and forgiveness of sins. The Church, as Catholics see it, is Christ living in the world today!

Free Must the Church be an organized system? Is the Church invisible? Is it composed of saints and sinners? Can we reject the Church without rejecting Christ? Must I belong to the Catholic church to be saved? The answer to these and many other important questions is available in a pamphlet which we will send you without cost or obligation—which you can read in the privacy of your home. Write today... CAN YOU GUESS THE BAKING COST?

Three big, fluffy layers with a generous application of chocolate icing... or perhaps you prefer a pineapple cake... or Devil's Food. Whatever your choice, have you ever stopped to figure how little the natural gas costs to bake it?

The ingredients for your favorite cake cost much more today than in 1940. But that's not true of natural gas here in the Gulf South. Less than a penny's worth of gas, at average rates, will bake a cake like this!

We think you'll agree that natural gas service—for cooking, heating, water heating, refrigeration, air conditioning—is worth far more than its cost!

Reward Offered For Information

In its all-out war on conservation violators, the State Game and Fish Commission has authorized the payment of a reward of $50.00 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one taking fish with telephone or other electrically operated device or by the use of poison.

"The people who report to us on the means of taking fish are pretty well known in their counties," states Mr. Fly, "and it is believed this new enforcement move will have a deterring effect on would-be violators and the prospect or reward will result in information they would not otherwise. All information will be held strictly confidential."

FOREST FIRES ENDANGER DRY WOODED AREAS

Mississippi Forestry Commission, issues a warning to all Mississippians to be extremely careful when using fire in any form. "As a result of the prolonged drought causing a timber-dry condition to exist in the woods throughout most of the state, extreme caution should be exercised by persons using fire in or near wood or grassy areas."

According to Mr. Stewart, fire occurrence during the month of June and to the present time is far above normal for this time of year. He says, "Until general rains fall throughout the state the fire danger will continue to increase. To preserve grass which is needed so badly for livestock and to prevent destroying young timber, let me urge everyone to be very careful and prevent woods fire."

HOME AGENT NOTES Farm Safety To Be Emphasized By Organizations

by MADGE ALLRED

Every year since 1944 you've heard the dates of National Farm Safety Week. This year this annually proclaimed week is July 20-26.

You read editorials and articles about safety in your newspapers. You see pictures about safety in the movies. You hear safety over your radio.

But what do you do about safety?

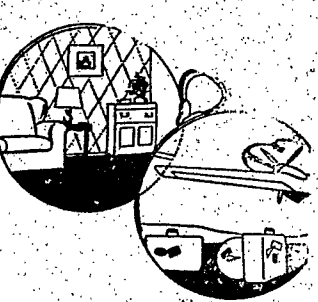

Do you complacently think: "I am careful on my driving. When I go swimming, when I cross the street. All this talk about safety doesn't apply to me."

You are wrong if you think safety only applies to the other fellow. It applies to you, your family, your home, your farm and to the other fellow, too. It applies to you during National Safety Week and all the other 51 weeks of every year.

Remember yesterday when you climbed up on the chair to reach that jar way up on the top shelf? When you set that jar of insect poison down on the lower shelf where the baby could reach it, you weren't being safe. When you left that pot of boiling water with the handle turned where the three-year-old could reach it, you weren't being safe.

Falls, burns and poisoning are the chief home accident causes. At present 4,000 farm folks are killed in the home each year - in spite of apparent safety and security in those homes.

Look about you. Fix that rickety chair. Anchor that throw rug in the hall. Have the gauge on your pressure cooker tested.

ANY WAY YOU LOOK AT IT! ... the Personal Property Floater is BIG insurance protection. It covers your clothing, luggage, camera, sports equipment and other personal belongings at home or away ... also your furniture and household equipment ... against early all risks of loss or damage.

Let us tell you the complete story of this grand, broad - coverage policy!

HOME SAFETY KIT

For an accident that does happen, in spite of all your precautions—or was it because of the lack of precautions on your part—have a home safety kit handy. The suggested standard list of things you should have in your home safety kit - just in case - includes:

One roll of two inch adhesive tape. An antiseptic, which may be soap and water or aqueous mercurchrome. Aromatic spirits of ammonia. Two triangular bandages. Pieces of clean, soft, white rags are good for large bandages.

Assorted sizes of adhesive and bandage compresses and individual packages of 2 1/2 inch by 4 inch by 4 inch square folded gauze compresses. The American Red Cross First Aid Book. Mineral oil for use in eyes. Needles and tweezers to remove splinters. Plain sterile petrolatum as ointment for burns.

Splints, as recommended by the Red Cross. A pair of small scissors. A package of sterile cotton. A sack of plain cotton swabs. Syrup of ipecac to induce vomiting. An elastic tourniquet.

HOME SAFETY WEEK

Hold a family conference on ways of maintaining safety. Clear rubbish from areas of work, walk, rubbush from areas of work, clearing or storage. Make stairs and ladders safe. Keep matches away from children. Put handrails on stairs.

Steel Shutdown Curtails Drilling

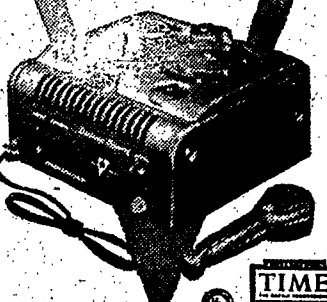

Continuation of the steel strike will bring about sharp curtailment of oil and gas drilling activities both in Mississippi and the nation, a survey conducted by the Oil and Gas Journal discloses.

The Journal declared that the strike "already is having serious effects on operation in the oil industry," and estimated the shutdown of steel mills is looting 110 wells daily from 1952-53 completion schedules.

While no figures were available for Mississippi, members of the industry asserted drilling operations "were beginning to feel the pinch" and that operators have been drilling on their inventories of casing, depleting stocks of supply stores and using as much

COTTON DUSTING AND SPRAYING NOW BIG AND IMPORTANT MISSISSIPPI BUSINESS

Editor's Note: This is another of the series of articles prepared by the State Aeronautics Commission designed to broaden the knowledge and interest of Mississippians in aviation. Another article will follow next week.

When the Wright brothers lifted the first flying machine into the air, it was a simple affair. They probably never dreamed their invention would be of much value to the farmer, but it is today that they could see how vitally important aerial agriculture has become to the operations of farmers of this nation and those of many other countries.

Mississippi pioneered this comparatively new phase of farming and has contributed more to its development than most of the other states put together.

Aerial agriculture today is big business. It offers the farmer many fine services including insect control through dusting or spraying, seeding, fertilizing, defoliating and photography.

The need for an improved method of insect control gave birth to aerial agriculture and that phase still predominates. From a modest beginning 28 years ago, great progress has been made in aerial cotton dusting, spraying and defoliating.

The first experiments with airplane application of insecticides were conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Entomology at Tallulah, La., in 1922, but the first commercial dusting was done two years later at Heathman, Miss.

Four hundred boll weevil infested areas were dusted but an early killing frost practically ruined the crop and the dusting could not be evaluated.

News of the experiment, however, spread rapidly and Delta farmers became interested. Dusting soon became commonplace in the broad, flat stretches of the fertile Delta and the demand for dusting and equipment increased.

The first cotton dusters were an adventurous group, largely composed of stunt fliers who thought it necessary to put on an air circus every time they dusted. As a consequence there were many crack-ups with an alarming number of fatalities.

As dusting spread the "exhibition" dusting pilots began to be replaced with fliers dead serious about their business. They realized that flying two to 10 feet above the cotton plants, having to top telephone wires, trees and other such obstacles was not child's play.

They also realized that preservation of their equipment was of utmost importance. Most of the early dusting was done with Travelaire, Waco, and Stearman biplanes. They were comparatively slow, highly maneuverable and relatively safe. Many are still in use, having been rebuilt time after time, but it is becoming increasingly more difficult to get new parts for the old, no-longer manufactured planes.

Aircraft especially designed for aerial agricultural work are now being produced and gradually are replacing the old aircraft of the early dusting days.

Many Mississippians have contributed to the development of cotton dusting and spraying.

Look out Mr. Boll Weevil! Above is shown one of the 341 planes that will spray and dust nearly two million Mississippi cotton acres between now and picking time to protect the State's most valuable crop from insect damage.

ton dusting and spraying. Outstanding among them is Dr. S. L. Calhoun, an entomologist formerly with the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, U. S. D. A., with headquarters at the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station, Stoneville. He presently is associated with Agricultural Chemicals, Inc., Greenville, Miss.

Dr. Calhoun was instrumental in the development of many insecticides and application methods and is considered an authority on dusting and spraying.

In the days before the use of aircraft in dusting and spraying, insecticides were applied with ground equipment. One of the experiments conducted at Stoneville disclosed that approximately 132 pounds of seed cotton per acre were lost as a result of the use of ground equipment during wet weather as contrasted to no loss from damage by use of plane.

"We figured," one of the experts disclosed that approximately 132 pounds of seed cotton per acre were lost as a result of the use of ground equipment during wet weather as contrasted to no loss from damage by use of plane.

"The Stoneville Experiment Station, under the direction of Superintendent Dr. William L. Oliver, also has made valuable contributions to aerial insect control, especially in the field of sprays and their application by plane. The use of sprays has increased considerably in the past four years as a result of the development of synthetic organic insecticides and the availability of highly concentrated toxicants.

The Experiment Station now owns a combination dusting-spraying plane it uses in its experiments to build a permanent landing strip for use of pilots availing themselves of the Station's facilities.

During the 1951 cotton season, the use of ground equipment was normal, 1,926,136 acres were sprayed or dusted. The operation involved the use of 341 planes, flying 34,497 hours and disbursing 29,471,659 pounds of dust and 514,267 gallons of spray. Total miles flown in application amounted to 2,759,660.

This was done with only two fatal accidents, both involving collision with ground obstructions, according to the records in the office of Director G. A. Moore of the Mississippi Aeronautics Commission.

There are approximately 50 Mississippi dusting and spraying companies and many pilots come from other states during the season. The operation no longer is confined to the Delta, but techniques have been devised for successful dusting and spraying of the smaller hill tracts and are being applied extensively in these areas.

Many Mississippi dusters have grown up with the business and have 15 to 20 years experience, but even of them all is Henry Elliott, 68 (correct) years old, of Cleveland, Miss. Elliott has dusted all over the United States and in South America, and still uses an old Travelaire biplane he calls "Little Henry." He gives it the same care a jeweler would a highly prized watch.

Dusters must keep themselves and their equipment in A-1 condition. Theirs is a business with no room for mistakes. They must pass rigid physical examinations and obtain low-flying waivers from the Civil Aeronautics Administration which must be filed with the State Aeronautics Commission.

They must protect themselves from the toxic effect of fumes and usually avail themselves of a good soap bath and complete change of clothing after finishing a dusting or spraying job.

Aerial Agriculture has survived its baby days and emerged as a rapidly growing business that is daily becoming more important to the farmer.

(Editor's Note: The above article concerned itself largely with the dusting and spraying phase of aerial agriculture, but it involves many other services for the farmer which will be dealt with in a subsequent release.)

a few minutes each afternoon. Buddy's bed was covered with cards and gifts from his many friends and he said: "Tell all my friends that I can not write to them, but I appreciate the cards and presents very much." Little Joellen Kallit, a dancing partner of Buddy's, has kept him supplied with Little Golden Books that he enjoys.

Buddy's grandmother Miller said: "If Buddy's condition has improved enough by Saturday he will be taken out of isolation and treatments will be started." Conditions at the hospital are crowded with all beds taken. Mrs. Miller said patients range in age from six or seven months up to ten years.

After checking with local physicians it is thought that Buddy is the only case in this immediate locality. The consensus of opinion amongst doctors is that polio is an unknown factor and the only precautions are to follow general health rules, get enough rest, and eat properly to build vitality.

On Tuesday night a telephone call from Mrs. Lozes in Vicksburg revealed that Buddy was the first true since struck. Mrs. Lozes said that plans were to give tests to determine the extent of the damage. At the time of her phone call Buddy still had no use of either leg, his left arm or his back, but seemed much more cheerful and with improved appetite and alert interest in stories and conversations.
